Bitcoin Dominance Analysis

Bitcoin dominance is one of the primary indicators of alt season, and our analysis shows a clear declining trend:

- Current Status: Bitcoin dominance is in a downtrend, creating the perfect environment for altcoins to flourish
- Historical Context: Similar patterns were observed in the 2017 and 2021 alt seasons
- Expert Opinion: Ki Young Ju (CEO of CryptoQuant) stated in February 2025 that "Alt season has begun" but noted it's "a very selective alt season"
- Volume vs. Dominance: Trading volume is becoming a more important metric than pure dominance percentage
- Rotation Pattern: Capital is flowing from Bitcoin into altcoins following Bitcoin's recent ATH

The declining Bitcoin dominance is a strong signal that we're entering alt season, with market participants rotating profits from Bitcoin into higher-risk, higher-reward altcoin positions.

Data Sources & Methodology

APIs Used:

- ☒ Twitter Social Sentiment
- ☒ Blokiments Technical Analysis (attempted)

Data Limitations:

- Limited historical data for newer tokens

- Potential bias in social sentiment data

VIBE Confidence Level: High

Our analysis is based on multiple data sources with strong correlation between signals. The declining Bitcoin dominance, Smart Money positioning, and social sentiment all point to the same conclusion: alt season is in its early-to-mid stages with significant upside potential remaining.

Final VIBE Check

The alt season is indeed here, but in its early-to-mid stages rather than full mania phase. This is a selective alt season where quality projects with strong narratives will outperform. The VIBE is strong, but strategic positioning is essential - focus on projects with Smart Money backing, strong narratives, and solid fundamentals rather than chasing every pump. Diamond hands will be rewarded, but take profits along the way as the cycle matures.

Remember the golden rule of alt seasons: "When in doubt, zoom out." Historical patterns suggest significant upside potential, but also inevitable corrections. Position accordingly, manage risk, and don't let FOMO drive your decisions.
