📊 Executive Summary

Smart Money wallets are currently showing strong accumulation patterns across multiple chains, with distinct preferences for different asset types on each blockchain. Our analysis reveals:

1. Ethereum Smart Money is heavily positioned in yield-bearing assets (LSETH, STETH), DeFi infrastructure (UNI, AAVE), and RWA exposure (ONDO).

2. Solana Smart Money is actively trading new meme tokens and fresh launches, with significant 24h inflows into PENGU, new tokens with the 🌱 prefix, and established memecoins like USELESS.

3. Base Smart Money is focused on DEX infrastructure through AERO, which saw over $500K in Smart Money inflows in the last 24h.

4. Cross-chain patterns show Smart Money is diversifying across ecosystems while maintaining chain-specific strategies: yield on Ethereum, high-velocity trading on Solana, and infrastructure on Base.

🎯 Final VIBE Check

Smart Money is currently playing a multi-chain strategy with distinct preferences on each blockchain. The strongest conviction lies in Ethereum yield assets (LSETH), Solana ecosystem tokens (PENGU), and Base infrastructure (AERO).

The most aggressive Smart Money activity is happening on Solana with rapid trading of brand new tokens, while the most conservative positioning is in Ethereum's yield-bearing assets. This suggests a barbell strategy: stable yields on one end and high-risk, high-reward plays on the other.

For those looking to follow Smart Money, consider a similar approach: core position in Ethereum yield assets, tactical allocation to Solana's ecosystem (with strict risk management), and strategic positioning in Base infrastructure.

Remember: Smart Money isn't always right, but they're rarely completely wrong. DYOR and manage risk accordingly.
